

In the Name of Allah, the Most Merciful, the Most Compassionate

The periodic report of the Southern Observatory for Human Rights of the month of February 2011

In fulfillment of the pledge to the victims of the of human rights violations, the Southern Observatory (SOHR), continues documenting those violations, stressing on adopting and communicating them to the international organizations defending the human rights, to remain as a witness in front of the international community against what was committed by the regime's forces of shameful violations, the most horrific is the homicides against the demonstrators, in addition to the wounding and the arbitrary arrests of their activists.

February witnessed the most heinous acts of repression and abuse against the human rights in the south, compared to the past months. As far as those violations were sever and over-committed, the same extent of the resolve of victims has increased in the face of the perpetrators. The results were not that the people of the south composed the finest epics to face those violations, without fear of the repression tools entrenched in front of them, nor the killing bullets targeted to their bodies. All of this was a determination to perform their right to collective expression of their views of political and civil demands and rights. They excelled in the creation of a form of struggle, by calling to commemorate what they called a "Friday of Rage," on February 11, a performance which has continued to be transformed into a "youth uprising," which is still burning, and its activists still continuing their sit-ins.

The suffering of the southern citizen deprived of his rights of liberty, dignity and self-determination, as well as the cruelty of his life conditions and prejudice his life incomes and a decent life, all of which represented a background to the explosion of the glowing peaceful youth uprising, experienced in the south today, as an extension of the struggles of the people of the south for the past four years.

Therefore, the youth uprising in the south that have raised the slogan of overthrowing the regime, on the way to disengagement, and self-determination. And here they still continuing their uprising, the demonstrators in the arenas of their struggle, rejecting any attempts to circumvent the will of those goals.

The month in February 2011 witnessed a high proportion of victims of repression and torture, as a reflection of what the authority's forces have of repressive policies, indifferent to the Constitution and its provisions in domestic and international laws deny such abuses, and even punish them. Their results were 30 dead and 116 wounded and 130 detained.

We are in the Southern Observatory for Human Rights condemn these crimes, promising the victims that not to overlook them, and showing in the time and place suitable.

Violations of the right of collective expression and suppression of the demonstrators:

The right of expression is a fundamental human right recognized internationally, as a possible means through which one can reach their thoughts and beliefs to others. The enjoyment of this right could be through a variety of ways, whether individually or collectively, directly or indirectly, through writing, audio, or even signs. So there are no chains those limit the enjoyment of this right, since the fact is that this right is the real expressive way of human freedom. Therefore it has been agreed by the international community not to be violated, even illegitimizing violating it, and has considered any breach a crime; their perpetrators must not escape punishment.

Because this right is violated by the forces of the Yemeni government, which suppresses in a very rude way the demonstrations of expression organized by the southern youth, facing them continuously in repression, violence and excessive force, not without the killing shots on the activists, which claimed the lives of dozens of dead and hundreds of wounded and prisoners during the month of February only (see Statistical Statement). Therefore some of the international forces which call for freedom and defend human rights expressed their disapproval of the violations committed by the forces of the Yemeni government.

The European Union mission in Yemen condemned "the use of violence against the peaceful protesters by the authorities' forces, calling on the Yemeni authorities to stop the attacks by the security forces and armed groups supporting the government against peaceful protesters and the journalists and avoid any escalation." This came in a political statement issued by the European Commission on Monday, February 21, and published by the Kuwait News Agency (KUNA), according to the Aden News Agency (ANA).

In continuation of the activities of the Southern Movement in which masses of many regions of the southern provinces participate in to express their right to self-determination, February witnessed a surge in the pace of those events in terms of increasing participants and the breadth of their regions, to include all the southern provinces, in particular the provincial capitals and major cities. Since the first of February the masses of the southern provinces continued to go out in protest marches against the authorities' policies towards her sons and their regions, demanding the release of political prisoners, and their right to demonstrate and to express collectively their commitment to gain their rights, especially the right to disengage with the Republic of Yemen.

Thursday February 3, witnessed demonstrations in many cities in the governorate of Aden on a revival of the "Southern Prisoner's Day" intermitted by skirmishes with the forces of power, in which the young man, Mazen Darwish, the brother of the martyr Ahmed Darwish, was injured.

On Saturday, Feb. 5, women of the district of Crater organized an expressive march, while the districts of Khormaksar, Mualla, and Mansoura also witnessed crowded demonstrations, faced by repression and detention to the young people. In al-Mansoura security forces arrested fifteen activists, and in Crater a number of them were arrested including the press activist, Bassam al-Ban, and the activist, Fathi Mohammed.

The forces the authorities to suppressed a peaceful march organized by the youth of Crater district on Monday, February 7, according to sources by "Sada Aden" website. In which the young man, Jaman Alkatiri, was seriously injured by a gunshot fired by soldiers of the authorities, in addition to the injury of two others injured, in addition to the arrests of the leader in the Southern Movement, Adnan Baharoon, the Chairman of the peaceful movement in Crater.

While the daily preparation of the event of "Friday of Rage", troops of power shot on young demonstrator were demonstrating in the city of Mansoura, on Tuesday, Feb. 8, wounding a number of them, in addition to arresting 12 activists according to the Aden News Agency.

The Agency France-Presse mentioned that "dozens of residents of Mansoura district in Aden gathered in the demonstration, chanting slogans against the unity and the regime of the President Ali Abdullah Saleh." This is what fueled the situation, and intensified resolve to the success of the "Friday of Rage."

In a shameful act, soldiers of the authorities stormed houses in the city of Mansoura aggressing on the sanctity and of women, on Wednesday, February 9, under the pretext of searching for their sons to be arrested for their participation in public protests. This act was censured by the citizens who went out directly in a mass rally in condemnation, especially because of that the security force had arrested a young person named Alaa, and nicknamed the "Palestinian," from between the arms of his mother, who tried to defend him, which led to breaking one of her arms, and storming the house of the young, Rashad Baadani, and arresting him from among his family, as well as the home of a young person, Ali Abdullah, nicknamed "al-Zaidi," but he was not at home.

During the escalation of the peaceful events, it has been launched on Friday, February 11, what is known as the "Revolution of the Southern Youth", which exceeded the demands currently any theses submitted by the authorities to calm the situation. When groups of young southern people launched a motivation campaign across the global social networking website "Facebook," through which they called to escalate the protests of youth under the name of "Friday of Rage", and the agreement on the escalation in the governorate of Aden, and to extend them to the rest of the centers of other governorates.

"Friday of Rage" has turned into a "youth uprising":

In response to the youth's invitation to stage the "Friday of Rage," thousands of the people of the districts and towns in the governorate of Aden staged peaceful demonstrations after the Friday prayers, on February 11, calling for the overthrow of the regime, the disengagement, and the right to self-determination. The security forces faced those protests by repression of excessive force, and in which the young demonstrators performed hit-and-run clashes with the forces of the authorities that have used to disperse them using live bullets, tear gas and batons.

In the city of Mansoura, a peaceful march rally attended by hundreds of young people was launched in the city, in which the participants walked around the main street towards the central market of the city, and there intervened authorities' security forces firing live bullets and tear gas into crowds of demonstrators, and launched a campaign of arrests in among them, the young people had no choice except to respond to those forces to defend themselves by throwing stones at the soldiers of the authorities, the rally procession was turned into a process hit-and-run between the young people and those forces.

In the neighborhood of al-Saada, in Khormaksar district, "Sada Aden" website said that a march of young people in hundreds roamed the "Darwish Street" towards the coast of the martyr, President Qahtan Mohammed al-Shaabi, and then returning back to enter from another neighborhood in the district near the Egyptian consulate.

A similar youth demonstration was launched in the city of Crater, started from Zako Café, in front of taxi stand, heading towards al-Tawila Street. In the cities of Mualla and Tawahi marches were organized there and attended by hundreds of young people. Sheikh Othman district, Omar Al-Mukhtar city, Cairo city, Dar Saad and Albraiqah Salah al-Din neighborhood, and al-Memdara, the Hell Mountain neighborhood, and other cities and districts in the governorate of Aden, also witnessed similar demonstrations, still continuing their glowing uprising with determination until the realization of their demands to overthrow the regime and determine their own destiny.

Field sources mentioned that the demonstrations began during the spread of heavy security, which transformed the governorate to a military barracks, through deploying units in various ports, the city and the corners of public streets and yards preparing for the demonstrations, in particular the traffic circles of al-Safena, Cairo, traffic circle near the factory of the textile and spinning, towards the Caltex traffic circle and the shipping line to Regal traffic circle.

These demonstrations throughout the month of February and on a daily basis and continued until March and is still happening till the moment, in a reflection of the resolve and determination of the youth of Aden to continue the vigor and determination until meeting their goals in the overthrow of the regime and to achieve their legitimate demands for freedom, dignity and self-determination, despite facing those demonstrations by violence and cruelty.

Al-Taif News website said that since the first week of the Youth Revolution, tens of thousands of them gather in the Martyrs Square (Rowaishan) in Mansoura district, where they have launched a sit-in there, refusing to go back homes, demanding the overthrow of the regime and the departure of President Ali Abdullah Saleh. While the authorities' forces are deploying in the vicinity of them, reinforced by armored vehicles and military units, and in the case of high combat readiness, a reflection of the panic and fear that haunt them.

Over the month of February and in light of the continued sit-ins and demonstrations of youth in the governorate of Aden, several of young people were killed and wounded, as a result of the targeting the crowds of demonstrators by bullets directly to them, indifferent and insensitive to what can be shed, even some of these confrontations were described as real massacres claimed the lives of dozens of young people between the dead and wounded, in addition to the arrests reached hundreds of them. The processes of the heinous murder committed on February 25, in the city of Mualla, can be described as a mass murder against humanity. The Director of the Office of Al-Jazeera Channel, Saeed Thabet said in live call with his channel that "the bodies of the dead and wounded remained dumped in the streets for a long time, because of the prevention of the first-aid by the security forces deployed everywhere," and describing the situation in Aden as "catastrophic", pointing to similar operations witnessed in the cities of Crater and Khormaksar.

He drew the attention of observers to what the forces are doing of dealing with the demonstrators, when it cut off the electricity entirely in al-Kaser neighborhood in Mansoura, while checkpoints of the army prevented the traffic to Mansoura to obstruct any flow for the youth of the other cities of Aden to join them. And deployed dozens of snipers on the Mountain Hotel and the Valley Hotel overlooking the Rowaishan yard, to shoot at the young demonstrators in the streets of Mansoura, which caused several victims; dead and wounded.

In a related context, sources confirmed that the authorities of the Central Security had established a blockade on the mosques of Khormaksar, Crater and Mansoura ignoring their sanctity, and the dividing the governorate to security squares, and spread military armored vehicles and tanks on the roads, neighborhoods and the streets and banned cars and pedestrians from entering Mansoura and Sheikh Othman cities.

The Web site, Sada Aden, reported that the forces of the authorities brought in 20 buses, loaded with thugs for the purpose of the suppression of the revolution of the youth in Aden. In addition, the authorities have made a deal with a number of prisoners who have criminal records, releasing them and paying them money for participating in the demonstrations for the implementation of riots and chaos and sabotage of public property to reflect a distorted picture of public opinion about the nature of these demonstrations, and give justification for the suppression by violence under the pretext of restoring order .

The authorities prevented the citizens from holding the Funerals of their dead, and exceeded to chase the wounded and detain them in hospitals, as what happened to the injured, Nasser Ali Al-Qadi, and some of them were kidnapped and their places of detention were not revealed.

Such inhumane practices were denounced by human rights organizations and humanitarian as well as southern political figures, when the President, Ali Nasser Mohammed, condemned such acts, saying: "Despite the peaceful approach of the movement, the authorities proceeded to use excessive force and use all methods of repression and abuse and torture, thinking it will kill the spirit of the approach of the peaceful resistance to annexation, occupation and tyranny."

Also invited the families of the victims of peaceful protests in Aden and rights activists, politicians and international organizations to urgent humanitarian relief, and to assume their legal and moral responsibilities for urgent and rapid intervention and sending medical relief teams as soon as possible.

In documentary statistics of the victims of the crimes of the regime's forces against the right of the southern young people during the month of February, according to what has been given to us by the human rights activist, Ahmed Rabizi, in addition to what has been monitored by the correspondents of the Observatory, the repressive actions resulted in the killing of 30 young men and the wounding of 216 participants in those youth events and the arrest of 130 activists as follows:

Arbitrary arrests and restriction of physical freedom:

The arbitrary detention is a restriction of freedom of the human body without legal justification, and a way beyond any judicial proceedings. There is no permission of the Attorney General nor a prior note, not even revealing the reason for arrest or charge for doing so. The domestic and international laws illegitimated that type of detention, considering it a violation against the human rights.

This type of arbitrary detention is practiced against the people of the south in a flagrant manner, without judicial oversight or accountability.

Physical and psychological torture and degrading treatment:

Physical and psychological torture is a hideous act against the right of human, an act of humiliating in which the victim turns to the lower degree of inhumane treatment. Man has dignity and sanctity, and must not be prosecute in his body and psyche. This is what is enshrined in positive and divine law. With all of that, the citizen in southern Yemen are exposed to constant and different types of torture and degrading treatment, as soon as someone arrested they are often exposed torture and cruel treatment, which its psychological consequences remain throughout the person's life.

The Southern Observatory received a communication by the human rights activist, Ahmed Rabizi, on behalf of the victim, Omar Abdul Rab Nasser Yahri, aged 45, lives in the governorate of Aden. Rabizi indicated that the victim was severely beaten with rifle butts by a group of soldiers belong to the Republican Guard stationed on the coast of Abyan in (Khormaksar) near his home. When he went out on the evening of Monday, February 28, 2011 at ten o'clock at night from his home to sit near it, that group caught him by surprise in a desolate way, beating him with the butts of their automatic weapons in violent way, which resulted in the following:

Fractures in his left forearm and upper arm and joint.

Crushing his right hand by treading on it on the asphalt.

Bruises on various parts of his body most of them in the back.

Dragging on the asphalt and left him in a severe case of fatigue

This was done without a legal deterrent, or religious restraint ensures the sanctity and dignity of the citizen.

In a statement published by the Aden News Agency (ANA), on Tuesday, February 15, Amnesty International condemned the acts of the regime's forces, following hitting the protesters with batons and electric shocking batons against them. Commenting on the conduct of the security forces," Philip Luther, deputy director of the Middle East and North Africa at Amnesty International said that: "a feeling of fear invades us about what is received by the reports about brutal attacks on peaceful protesters by the security forces, and the Yemeni government has to rein its security forces immediately and stop the excessive use of force."

Information was reported about the exposure of the young man, Abdullah Omar Bin Mkashen, aged 20 years, from Mukalla city in Hadramout on Monday, February 20, when he was severely beaten with rifle butts by a group of soldiers of the Help Police who arrested him without legal justification, on his way to his home in the city of Sharj. The physical torture led to wounds in different parts of his body, and he was seen bleeding from them. For its part, the family of Bin Mkashen has held the governor of Hadramout and the Director-General of Security the full responsibility for the life of their son, who remains in prison and the blood is still coming out from his body without ministering to the hospital.

In the city of Sayoun, forces of the authorities detained the child, Omar Ayub Bayashot, aged 12 years, and beat him and threatened him with death if he would not tell them the names of the young people who organize the protests, to be released later in a poor psychological state. An assault by the authorities' forces on Thursday, February 3, had been launched against some participants in a procession, they are: Ben Ali Al-Hajj, Basaba, and Wajdi Ba'atua, who suffered different injuries. In the city of Mukalla, on Thursday, forces attacked and beaten Sheikh Issam Basnbul, the Imam of Al-Nour mosque in Mukalla, as he left the mosque, and detained him for hours before being released, and arrested Mohammed Karama Abd after severely beating him in front of the people and was bleeding from his head. Others were also arrested among them: Mohamed Fahmy al-Dibani, Amir Faisal Bawazir, a person belongs to the tribe of Barajeh, as well as two young sons of the family of al-Masimar in al-Salam neighborhood and were arrested under their homes, they were then submitted to types of beatings and degrading humiliation.

Mock trials against activists of the Southern Movement:

When justice is absent, then all human values become absent. This is what we feel when judiciary turns into an instrument of oppression by the authorities, under which their political opponents turn into criminal offenders, to implement against their right punishment, repression and abuse.

In the context of chasing the leaders of the Southern Movement, authorities have been fabricating charges of a criminal nature against them. When the Specialized Criminal Court in the province of Aden, on Tuesday, February 8, held its first meeting to discuss the accusations fabricated by the Public Prosecution against the right of the leader in the movement, Shalal Ali Shaie, who is accused in the participation in an armed gang and advocating secession and transmitting the culture of hatred.

The website, Aden al-Ghad said that this trial is taking place in the absence of "the defendant" and that the court considered him "fugitive from justice."

The website Sada Aden said that the SCC's session was held on Sunday, February 6, its first meeting of the trial of the lawyer Mohammed Massad Naji al-Okla, the president of the National Council of the Southern Movement in the district of al-Dhali on charges of inciting separatism and insulting the head of state and disturbing the public tranquility, as well as charging eleven leaders, including the leaders, Dr. Abdu Almattri, and Ali Mukbil on charges of calling for unauthorized marches resulted in riots and violence.

Sada Aden website reported that the Specialized Penal Court continued on the same day the trial of three activists of the peaceful movement in al-Houta and Tuban in Lahj governorate on false criminal charges, including the killing of a soldier from the Central Security Forces. They are: Sami Ahmed Alawi Al-Saqqaf, Mohammed Abdullah, Naif Mohammed Mukbil, and the two fugitives, one of them is Adeeb Mohammad Saeed Amer. The lawyer, Khalid Ali Nasser, in an appeal from the office of the lawyer, Aref al-Halmi, demanded the release of the accused and to investigate those who restricted the freedom of these clients and changed what the accused said and the abuses they were subjected to during detention and investigation.

Restrictions on the press and journalists:

Freedom of the press, the right guaranteed internationally and nationally, the fact that the press is a recognized the forth authority, since it is considered the real reflector of what is happening on and the real course of events, and the regulatory and expressive authority, if not the guiding and directing to events. Therefore, restricting journalism is not approved by laws, but any violation of it is an illegal act and punishable by law. The newspapers in southern Yemen are subject to confiscation and narrowing and even closure. Many of the websites are also under supervision and prevention, and their editors are exposed to prosecution of abuse and threats.

Forces of the authorities, on Friday, February 25, in the neighborhood of al-Arish in the district of Khormaksar, arrested four journalists who were on assignment to cover an event organized by neighborhood's youth, in interaction with the youth revolution that is sweeping various districts of the governorate of Aden. According the news websites of "al-Masdar Online" and "Mareb Press", that their four correspondents were on a mission to cover these events, and exposed to arrests with the young participants in the protest, while they were subjected to harassment and inhumane treatment before releasing them.

On Sunday, February 20, the Aden NEws Agency (ANA) reported that the website was exposed during the four last days to intensive attempts to be hacked by unknown destinations, tried to log on the website's main board to tamper with its contents.

A number of journalists and correspondents of the Aden News Agency (ANA), earlier in the month of February, were wxposed to threats of killing by the systems of the national and political security of the Yemeni authorities, against the background of working for the agency.

Fhadil Mubarak, Al-Jazeera correspondent in Aden, explained in an interview with his channel on Friday, February 18, that he and his co-workers in the channel, are under threat and accountability by the security forces that patrol the streets of Aden to disperse the rallies taking place in the neighborhoods. Noting that every journalist carrying a camera in the field is bothered by the Yemeni security personnel whether working for Al Jazeera or not, and if the answer is yes, the cameras and press materials are confiscation, and subjecting them to the attacks of repression.

According to the website of "al-Tagheer" that security forces stationed at the checkpoint of Dar-Saad in Aden governorate, confiscated, on February 19, the issue NO: 18 of independent al-Yaqeen newspaper without giving reasons. Which is the second time that the newspaper exposed to confiscation.

Abdullah Musleh, the editor-in-chief said that ((The newspaper did not publish a thing that violates the law, except that it set aside a large area to cover the youth and people's demonstrations in all the governorates, and writes the names of the dead and wounded who are victims of the thugs)).

A variety of other violations:

Many aspects of life in southern Yemen are violations in a continuous basis as a result of the policies of the authorities practiced against the right of the south and its citizens.

Here are a number of examples of such violations that have been monitored during the month of February, as examples of the authorities' politics and insistence on committing violations without legal or even moral restrictions.

In protest against the actions of the forces of the authorities of firing live bullets on peaceful demonstrators and the resulting deaths, injuries, terror and intimidation of citizens, "al-Masdar Online" website said that the young man, Abdullah Mohammed Qasim, from the city of al-Dhali, set himself on fire, on Thursday, February 24, which led to his death from burns.

Citizens of the district of Mudia in Abyan governorate, like many areas of the southern provinces, suffer from the deterioration in health, education services, communications and other vital services. In protest about the conditions, groups of women, on Monday, February 14, storm the hospital of the city, demanding the authorities to provide medical services for their sick children, and rescue them from the deteriorating health situation in the region and the spread of many infectious diseases. The Aden News Agency reported that groups of citizens expressed their discontent with the state of lawlessness lived in their district, and expressed readiness to contribute to overcome the chaos to secure the lives of their families.

About 700 employees of the electricity workers carried out a sit-in in front of the branch of the General Organization for electricity in Aden, demanding the promotion of their situation. Barakish Net website said that about 700 of the workers of the General Electricity Corporation protested on Sunday, February 13, besides Hujeif traffic circle, in front of the General Establishment for Electricity in Aden, demanding their rights to health care and to pay them their seized bonuses, and wonder about the previous promises of the housing associations belong to them, and waved banners calling the Director General of the Public Electricity Corporation in Aden to leave.

Masses of people who were the victims of the disaster of the floods swept through the governorates of Hadramaut and Mahara, complained about the mishandling of the authorities with their suffering and the absence of the consideration to their problems and the correct processes to solve them. Those authorities abused the use of their powers, which increased their sufferings. The victims of the floods demanded through a symposium held on Saturday, February 12, to end the pending files of the disaster and expedite the preparation for future plans to review and work to find solutions that help get over the consequences.

A military checkpoint belong to the forces of authorities, located at the western entrance of the area of Wadi Hadhramaut imposed an amount of a thousand YR as a fee on each vehicle passing through the checkpoint, and who rejects the payment of such taxes is held and their cars and sent to prison, which caused resentment among the people of Wadi and the desert of Hadrmout. The Aden News agency (ANA) quoted from the citizen, Salem Saeed, a driver of a seized vehicle who was taken to prison for refusing to comply with the arbitrary resolutions of the military checkpoint, on Saturday, February 12, when he was surprise and other motorists when they arrived at the checkpoint in the area called "Qawwadh" by orders to pay a financial fine worth thousand riyals without any legal justification, and they did not do anything wrong when soldiers refused to make them pass through the military checkpoint and held their vehicles and sent them to prison.

Peasants and farmers of the lands and orchards of Tuban Delta and the area of al-Houta in the governorates of Lahej and Abyan, suffered tremendous losses worth tens of millions of riyals due to the selling to them seeds of poor quality free from agricultural specifications required by the company that monopolies the agricultural importation, which led to the failure of their agricultural season completely. The website, Sada Aden, said that on Sunday, February 6, that the competent authorities did not listen to the complaints of those affected by the rotten seeds, who later became very convinced that the disregard of the authorities to hold those who are caused of causing heavy losses is a policy towards the agricultural economy in the southern governorates.

The Aden News Agency, on Saturday, February 5, revealed that the leaders described as "high" have issued resolutions to stop the salaries of a large number of leaders of the peaceful Southern Movement of the military commanders who had already been laid off from work and brought to enforced retirement.

A number of leaders who were affected by these arbitrary measures explained that those sanctions aimed at pressuring them to dissuade them from performing their activities in the peaceful movement, which they said that they are involved in, and will not give up it whatever it takes, asserting at the same time that they will use all means to get their pensions that their families have no other source of income except them after being laid off and the abandoned and push them to enforced retirement.

Urgent communication to the international organizations on the bloody violations in Aden

SOHR, February 18, 2011.

Sirs and madams in the international organizations for human rights

The Southern Observatory for Human Rights (SOHR) presents its compliments to you and informs you of horrible crimes against citizens staging peaceful demonstrations in the city of Aden during the last three days, raising banners demand freedom, democracy and the departure of the regime of the Yemeni President.

A number of demonstrators were demonstrating in al-Rwishan Square for more than a week, led by young people who were launching a sit-in peacefully for more than a week in al-Rwishan Square in al-Mansoura city – Aden, until Wednesday 16.02.2011, after the noon prayer, when Yemeni security forces came unexpectedly using tear gas grenades which led to dispersing them to residential neighborhoods, but the security forces continued to chase them using live bullets against them, which resulted in the murdering of a number of people and wounding many others, amounted to 4 dead and 32 wounded.

As a result of the people's anger at that, the demonstrators set fire to the headquarters of the Local Council, the municipality and burned vehicles belong to the municipality, and they also burned the headquarters of the General People's Congress / Mansoura Branch, after that they went to besiege the police station in al-Mansoura city. Everyone was in hit and run with the armed forces that went in using live ammunition to disperse and chase the protesters.

On Thursday, 2/17/201, a person was killed and at least six people were injured when security forces broke up a rally procession this afternoon launched by thousands of young people in al-Mansoura to condemn the incidents of violence in the city on Wednesday causing two dead and 24 wounded. Friday, 2/18/2011 was the most bloody, when the largest number among the dead and wounded was recorded during the protests witnessed in a number of areas in the city of Aden. The death toll of suppressing peaceful protests by the Yemeni security forces has risen to 6 and dozens of wounded who have been injured in all the districts of Khormaksar, al-Arish and Sheikh Othman.

The Southern Observatory for Human Rights (SOHR) strongly condemns the brutality of the authorities of Yemen and killing the defenseless citizens in the city of Aden, and calls upon the international community, represented in its human rights organizations, to perform rapid intervention to stop the violations against the peaceful citizens and demonstrators through using live bullets to intimidate them, which led to dozens of dead and wounded. And that these crimes which reached the extent of direct killing, are crimes against humanity, their perpetrators must be punished and pursued by the international community and its courts.

We call on the international community to bear its responsibilities towards what is happening to the people of the south today, represented in killing, abusing and arrests. And to consider the tragic and degraded situation experienced by our people in the south because of the practices of Sana'a regime of tyranny, deprivation and blockade, since the fact that the issue of the people of the south and their sufferings are absent from the global media and international community's concerns in comparison to many other Arab peoples, who has risen against dictatorial regimes.

The expression of the demands of the protesters to get their rights and freedoms through peaceful demonstrations is granted by the constitutions and international laws and should be supported and protected by the international community to all the peoples eager to recover their freedom and dignity of humanity. We, therefore, appeal determinately all the official and rights regional and international bodies and organizations to exert pressures on the Sana'a regime to stop the use of force against the peaceful demonstrations and sit-ins in the South.

The Southern Observatory appeals you to circulate these events to the international community and hold accountable those who committed and ordered to execute those violations by influential military and political leaders in the government of the Republic of Yemen.
